Council Invests $850 In Victory Bond

New Councilors Sworn Into Office; Committees Appointed; Town Solicitor Decides in Favor of Councillor Ford.

Monday evening saw a new council being sworn into office for 1942. Councillors John Ramsay and Fred Cox sat in on the discussions for the first time and received congratulations on their election victory from the old members.

Present were Mayor Ambrose, Councillors Abousafy, Cox, Dutil, Ford, Jenkins and Ramsay.

Arising out of the minutes was the question of the eligibility of Councillor Ford on the council. It had been moved at the last meeting that the council would abide by the decision of town solicitor Bannan. A letter was read from Mr. Bannan which stated Councillor Ford was eligible to sit on the council and after a few minutes discussion the matter was dropped and is now a closed issue as far as the council is concerned.

Personnel of the various committees:

Light & Water: Councillors Ford, Jenkins, Ramsay.

Works & Property: Councillors Dutil, Cox, Jenkins.

Finance: Councillors Abousafy, Cox, Ford.

Health and Relief: Councillors Abousafy, Ramsay, Jenkins.

License and Police: Councillors Dutil, Jenkins, Cox.

Building: Councillors Ramsay, Abousafy, Ford.

Band, Park and Rink: Councillors Jenkins, Dutil, Ramsay.

The first named councillor on each committee is chairman.

Deputy mayors: first quarter, Councillor Ford; second quarter, Councillor Dutil; third quarter, Councillor Abousafy; fourth quarter, Councillor Jenkins.

William Chapman was present and asked that when considering the estimates for 1942, the improvements he asked for some time ago be given consideration. Works and Property committee was authorized to inspect a road in front of Mr. Chapman's property and place posts which would stop delivery trucks from coming too near and eliminate damage to property. Improvements in the alley behind the Chapman property will be inspected by the committee and a report brought back to council.

The health report from Drs. Rose and Claxton revealed that the town, with the exception of the odd case, was singularly free from communicable disease. Their report held a note of warning, however, when they told the council that steps should be taken now to eliminate water contamination which has existed in the local water supply during the past few years. Measures will be taken immediately by the Light & Water committee to try and find a means of having pure water this summer.

200 feet of 24-inch firehose was authorized purchased.

Dominic Oliva complained of the darkness when going to work at 5:30 a.m., February 9 and 10. Cause of the lights not being turned on during the two nights in question was due to the change to daylight saving time and the automatic clock had not been regulated. This has now been remedied.

A letter was read by the mayor from Mayor Francis Gentry, of Long Beach, California, and which had been brought to Coleman by Miss Evelyn Dinsmoor, and presented to Frank Abousafy at the

LOCAL RINKS FARE BADLY IN PONTIAC BONSPIEL

Ledieu Rink Undefeated in Three Games; Four Other Local Rinks Met Defeat in Two Main Competitions.

22 Pass rinks entered the Pontiac-Studebaker-Cole bonspiel held at Blairmore on Sunday, five of them being from Coleman. Blairmore, Bellevue, Hillcrest and Pincher Creek all entered rinks.

Of the five local rinks only Ledieu remained undefeated, and after three games is in the eighth of the Cole and Pontiac competition. The other four rinks, Kerr, Gentile, Smith and Claxton, all suffered defeats in both competitions. Next Sunday the consolation competition will get underway and it is the hope of all local rinks that they will fare much better.

This is the largest entry ever received in this bonspiel and it would appear that it will soon surpass the Crows Nest Pass Bonspiel in popularity. All games are played on Sundays and since no loss of work results the 'spiel's success is assured.

J. A. Park Appointed Red Cross Treasurer

Ukrainian and Russian Societies Donate Large Sums to Local Branch for Relief of The Fatherland Fund.

The regular meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross was held in the council chamber on Tuesday evening.

A letter will be sent provincial headquarters asking a tracer be sent out as to what credit is still due the local branch on the Royal Tour picture shown here two years ago.

The treasurer's report revealed that a balance of $737.85 remained in the branch's credit.

At the election of officers for 1942 the position of treasurer was left vacant. At the meeting on Tuesday J. A. Park was appointed treasurer.

Amounts received during the past month included School Teachers' cheque, $15; memberships, $10; Ukrainian Society, $108.50; Russian Society, $1,924; Italian ladies, proceeds of a recent white drive, $14.15; dances, $95.50. Bills included, Ironside & Park, $3.15; The Journal, $7.05, material from headquarters, $198.82.

The amounts given by the local Ukrainian and Russian societies are sent by the local branch to headquarters where the money is directed to the relief of the Ukrainian and Russian peoples in Europe.

The president and treasurer were given authority to sign cheques.

A monster concert and tombola is being sponsored by a number of societies such as Polish, Russian, First Slovak, etc. and will be held March 22 in the Polish hall. A letter was received from the societies asking that a representative be sent to the concert from the Red Cross and be prepared to give a brief address. President Dutil is expected to represent the local branch.

Sunday evening Victory Loan concert. A reply will be sent Mayor Gentry thanking him for his greetings and good wishes.

Council will meet every fourth Monday in future instead of twice monthly as has been the practice in the past.

E. D. Batttrum, was re-appointed town auditor and Miss Gladys Lees, re-appointed secretary-treasurer.

It was the unanimous opinion of the councillors that part of the surplus funds should be used to buy a Victory bond. A $800 bond will be purchased, the money to be taken from the trust fund.

A grant of $50 was authorized to help defray expenses of the local Victory Loan campaign. The Miners' union gave free use of the hall for the Sunday concert.

Many years ago council borrowed $2,000 from George Morgan with which to purchase Coleman Light & Water bonds. It was moved that payment in full be made to Mr. Morgan. This means that the town now owns $4,000 of bonds in the Light & Water company.

Council will write a street lighting expert to meet them, Monday, March 16, to advise them on the best street lighting system and approximate cost.

Victory Loan Concert in Community Hall Sunday Evening Attended By Capacity Crowd

Artists Gave High Standard Of Entertainment; Speakers Urge Upon Listeners The Urgency of Making Loan A Success.

Wet swirling snow and low temperature failed to keep Colemanites in their homes Sunday evening and as a result the Community hall was packed to capacity to hear brief interesting addresses on the new Victory loan and enjoy band music, songs, instrumental music comedy acts, and dancing.

Artists included the California beauty and ambassador of goodwill, Miss Evelyn Dinsmoor, boys of the R.C.A.F. Bombing and Gunner school, Lethbridge, the R.C.A.F. band at Macleod, as well as Anthony Razella, the Barber Shop Quartet and AC2 D. M. Prior, pianist, all of Macleod air school.

The concert opened with "O Canada", the gathering being led by LAC Faye, Committee Chairman.

Wm. White, stated it was essential that every citizen of Coleman do their part in making the local campaign a success.

A. F. Short stated it was a matter of dimes and dollars. He had spoken various occasions on the necessity of helping to finance the war and on each occasion the demand seemed to become more urgent. Happenings on the war fronts during the past few weeks meant that we must put our shoulders to the wheel that much harder. The dollars of today meant the planes and tanks of tomorrow and the victories of 1943.

H. C. McBurney, unit organizer, spoke in detail of the various demonstrations in which the bonds would be issued. He stressed the point that elderly people need have no fear of investing their savings as their bond could be cashed within ten minutes should they have urgent need of cash. In addition their money would be earning twice as much in interest than it would by merely lying in the bank. 825 subscriptions were received in the last loan which ranks high among other towns in the province. He concluded with the remark that Coleman did it last year, it can do it again.

Flying officer Gordon Sheaffer, of Spokane, Wash., was M.C. and started the entertainment program with the United States Army Air Corps Wings. He then introduced the American ambassador of goodwill, Miss Evelyn Dinsmoor, dressed in an official uniform of white satin with the colors of the rainbow stitched on the jacket, hat and skirt.

In the absence of Mayor Ambrose, Frank Abousafy received from Miss Sunshine a message from Francis H. Gentry, mayor of the city of Long Beach. It read: Greetings from Long Beach and all southern California.

We are very happy to have one of our charming young ladies, Miss Evelyn Dinsmoor, bring to you personally our sincere wishes for an exceedingly successful Victory Loan drive.

United as we are in the supreme task of freeing all of the North American continent of the threat to our highly prized freedom we must realize that there can be no lessening of effort by the citizens of your great country and an ever-increasing effort on behalf of our citizens, marching shoulder to shoulder, until the Victory shall be ours.

Mr. E. R. McFarland, public relations chairman for southern Alberta, spoke briefly on the importance of putting across the loan successfully.

ACI Anthony Razella played two selections on his accordion which were well received. Cpl. Lynam, trumpeter, accompanied on the piano by AC2 Mahon, received enthusiastic response.

Sgt. McGinnis made a boast that he could get out of a straight jacket in 30 seconds. Trussed up by two mounties he failed to escape in the allotted time and at intervals throughout the program squirmed his way on to the stage only to be dragged off amid gales of laughter.

A humorous skit, "Life in the R.C.A.F. as we would like it," and "Life in the R.C.A.F. as it Really Is," also was quite humorous and was taken part in by Miss Dinsmoor.

Wing Commander Jones gave a description of the R.C.A.F. flying suit and parachute and also the cost. The heavy flying suit cost $40, shoes $8, helmet $4, goggles $4, gloves $1, parachute $250. It costs $500 to clothe and place a man in an aircraft. He estimated that to send on a flight, 200 large bombers each having a crew of 5 men, would cost $500,000.

Miss Dinsmoor sang "Bluebirds Over the White Cliff of Dover" and "Smiles." She gave a short exhibition of tap dancing which was well received.

The act which drew the most applause was the humorous skit entitled "The Awkward Squad," under the direction of Sgt. Major Mulock. Drilling as it should not be done was ably enacted by the cast of four. The applause grew to admiration when a few moments later the cast re-appeared and gave a smart display of military precision.

Wing Commander Jones continued with his description of ammunition and bombs giving cost of each item.

AC2 Prior, pianist, proved himself master of the ivories as he played a number of popular and classical tunes.

A. F. Short presented to Miss Dinsmoor on behalf of the local National War Finance committee, a picture of Crows Nest Mountain.

Miss Dinsmoor then entered into her flag dance, using the combination Canadian and American flag, which she had brought with her to Canada.

The splendid program came to an end with the playing of the American and Canadian national anthems.

29 DEGREES BELOW TUESDAY MORNING

Beat Winter's Former High Mark of 22 Degrees Below; Much Warmer Wednesday.

Old Man Winter took a firm grip over southern Alberta on Tuesday morning and temperatures took a sudden dip to break all existing low temperatures of the season.

In Coleman, the mercury sank to 29 degrees below, as recorded on the thermometer at International mine. This beat the mark set on December 31 when 22 degrees below was registered. On Wednesday morning the weather has started to moderate as 2 degrees above was recorded.

No fresh snow fell and traffic through the Pass continued on schedule.

Near Halfway Mark After Three Days Canvass

Coleman was gaining rapidly on its quota of $68,000 as canvassers and the bank had recorded collections totalling $31,000 on Wednesday evening.

This amount is $13,000 less than collected during the first three days of the 1941 loan. Weather conditions are not as favorable as last year. Cold weather and the dark nights tend to slow up the canvassers and so their daily calls are not as numerous as they were in June, 1941.

The committee is fully confident of oversubscribing the quota and much ground has yet to be covered by the canvassers.

Two days of canvass have resulted in Coleman subscribing slightly better than $23,000 or practically one third of the $68,000 quota. Cold weather has failed to stop salesmen from making their rounds each night.

Monday $13,000 was subscribed and canvassers report good response from all those solicited. A comforting feature of the campaign is the manner the public is receiving the canvassers. Only on the odd occasion are the canvassers unable to secure entrance into the house and so place the facts of the loan squarely before the prospective purchaser.

Blairmore-Frank and Pincher Creek units in the division which Coleman is a part, were over subscribed at the opening of the campaign, having been canvassed before the campaign officially opened. Pincher Creek was over-subscribed at the opening gun of the 1941 campaign also.

SIXTY BLAIRMORE ELKS INVADEN COLEMAN THURSDAY

Brought Travelling Gavel; Four New Members Initiated; Enjoy Social Evening.

Blairmore Elks, sixty strong, invaded the fair of the local Elks last Thursday evening and brought with them the travelling gavel which they presented to the officers of the local lodge.

Four new candidates were initiated into the Coleman lodge, they being J. J. McIntyre, A. Wilson, Geo. Rushon and Tony Dececco.

Following the business session the members and visitors settled back to enjoy a social evening. A few speeches, songs and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Coleman will in the near future carry the gavel back to Blairmore and it will be the endeavor of the officers to have as many members attend as possible.

WAR SITUATION SURVEYED BY PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL MAKING STIRRING ADDRESS

London. Prime Minister Churchill announced grimly Sunday night the fall of Singapore, said it was a "heavy and far-reaching military defeat," and in a stirring plea for the life of his government declared that now with the United States in the war "we are no longer alone."

Broadcasting to the world in a 24-minute speech the prime minister answered rising criticism of his cabinet with the declaration that his policies had been based on the United States' entry into the conflict, that "it is what I have dreamed of, aimed at and worked for, and now it has come to pass."

"When I survey and compute the power of the United States and its vast resources," he said, "and feel that they now are in it with us, with the British Commonwealth of Nations all together, however long it lasts, until victory or death, I can not believe there is any other factor in the whole world which can compare with that."

Praising the Russians' unity in their "most dire need," Mr. Churchill exhorted the Allied peoples the world over to follow their example.

"The Russian people did not fall to bickering among themselves," he told his critics. "They just stood together and worked and fought harder."

"They did not lose trust in their leaders. They did not try to break up their government."

"Hitler had hoped to find Quislings and fifth columnists in the wide regions he overran and among the unhappy masses who fell into his power. He looked for them, he searched for them, but he found none."

Mr. Churchill did not mention the escape of the German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the cruiser Prinz Eugen through British home waters, a floating of Britain's cherished sea power, which with defeats in the Pacific, had added fuel to the growling against his government.

He made it plain that neither Sunday's fall of Singapore nor Japan's other quick victories could cloud his faith in eventual Allied victory.

"To-night the Japanese are triumphant," he said. "They shout their exultations around the world."

"We suffer. We are taken aback. We are hard-pressed. But I am sure, even in this dark hour, that criminal madness will be the verdict which history will pronounce upon the authors of the Japanese aggression after the events of 1942 and 1943 have been described on its sombre pages."

Must Not Contain Tin

Ottawa.—Metals Controller George C. Bateman has ruled that crown caps for beverage bottles must not in future be made of any metal containing tin. He said he understands the crown cap manufacturers probably will use instead a thin lacquered steel.

L. W. BROCKINGTON SAYS THAT BRITAIN IS CONFIDENT OF THE ULTIMATE VICTORY OF ALLIES

Ottawa.—Leonard W. Brockington, former special assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, told a press conference that Britons have a great enthusiasm for Canada but lack a general understanding of just what Canada is doing in the war.

Mr. Brockington arrived in Ottawa after two months in Britain. He plans to resume law practice as associate counsel for an Ottawa firm but will devote as much time as possible to war activities, he said.

During his stay in Britain he interviewed well-known personalities from Prime Minister Churchill to George Bernard Shaw.

General de Gaulle, leader of the Free French, had given him a message for Canadians and it would be released shortly.

"I saw many evidences of magnificent work Canadian scientists, doctors and nurses are doing," he told newspapermen.

There was no general view in Britain regarding the possible length of the war but the most optimistic

Australia Worried

Have Summoned An Emergency Session Of Parliament

Canberra.—The Australian parliament was summoned into emergency session—three weeks earlier than originally scheduled—for secret discussions of what Prime Minister John Curtin called the "continued deterioration of the situation in the Pacific."

Mr. Curtin moved the date up to Feb. 29 to give members what he indicated would be a detailed review of dangers to Australia before the slowly spreading Japanese offensive.

Almost simultaneously a communication from the Australian air force said a Japanese flying boat had dropped bombs on the Solomon Islands northeast of Australia. No damage was reported.

The Melbourne Herald's war correspondent said parties have been sent out to seek information about the Australian militia force which was defending Rabaul, New Britain—west of the Solomon Islands—when the Japanese landed.

The garrison has been silent since it issued a dramatic message Jan. 23 that invasion craft had been sighted, but all information which has reached Port Moresby, on New Guinea to the south, indicates the men were obeying the last order of the day from the commander at Rabaul, Col. Scanlon, which read:

"There will be no surrender."

It is presumed the men were accompanied into the hills by six war nurses who throughout the bombings showed great courage and coolness. In Australian domestic matters, it was announced 5,000,000 people will be required to register under the government's manpower registration scheme, which will be put into effect within a month.

Airplane Losses

British Losses To End Of 1941 Were 3,981 Planes

London.—British air losses to the end of 1941 were 3,981 planes, against German losses of 4,440 aircraft and Italian losses of 2,119. Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair declared in a written reply to a House of Commons question.

Air losses include aircraft destroyed by the Free French but those accounted for by naval aircraft or ships of the Royal Navy and merchant marine.

Free French losses are not included in the British figures.

Post-War Development

London.—Lord Reith has been given the new title of minister of works and planning, with the task of guiding town and country in post-war development schemes. Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio in the war cabinet, announced in the House of Commons. Lord Reith has been minister of works and buildings and first commissioner of works.

Egg Shipments

Will Now Be Sent To Britain In Dried Powder Form

Ottawa.—Canadian eggs for Britain are to be shipped from now on in dried powder form instead of in the shell, the special products board stated. The change will make no difference in the contract prices for export eggs in 1942, nor in the demand for all the top quality eggs that can be made available for Britain. The bonus of three cents per dozen on grade A eggs to producers will be continued. Exporters will continue to offer eggs to the special products board, but the eggs will be shipped for drying as directed by the board.

Will Be Self-Supporting

Registration Fee Pays For Operation Of Gasoline Rationing Plan

Ottawa.—The gasoline rationing plan which goes into effect on April 1, will be self-supporting, Munitions Minister How said. He explained in a statement that expenditures necessary for the printing of the application forms and coupon books, the cost of regional offices and any other expenses involved in the operation of the plan, will be met out of the $1 registration fee which the car owner will pay.

Sabotage In South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—A fresh outbreak of sabotage which disrupted telephone and telegraph communication between the Transvaal and Cape Province resulted in assignment of escorts for line repairmen. Two linemen have been attacked while attempting to repair damaged communications.

Sugar For Feeding Bees

Ottawa.—Under an order issued by Sugar Administrator S. R. Noble, every beekeeper who needs to buy sugar for feeding bees must apply to the administrator, through a provincial apiarist, for permission to make such purchases.

HOME ON LEAVE

Lieut. Barney Medland, Winnipeg, crew member of the torpedoed British aircraft carrier Ark Royal, claims looking into a camera is worse than facing Nazi U-boats and torpedoes. He should know, for he and Lieut. William Fowler of Toronto were the last to leave the Ark Royal before she toppled over near Gibraltar. Lieut. Medland is home on leave, but Lieut. Fowler is still at Gibraltar "mopping up."

Canadian Corvette

Helps A British Torpedoed Tanker To Reach Port

A British Port.—The Canadian corvette Orillia helped a torpedoed British tanker, the Taheeh, reach port, thereby saving a $1,000,000 oil cargo. The tanker was 600 miles from Britain when the torpedo struck and fire broke out. The crew abandoned ship but the vessel remained afloat. The captain and three officers returned and managed to stop the blaze.

The Orillia took the Taheeh in tow with makeshift gear until the tanker was able to raise steam. When the corvette ran out of fuel she was refueled by the bunkers of the tanker which completed the limping, five-day trip under her own power.

SAYS ALLIES CAN INVADE NORWAY NOW

The Allied powers are strong enough now to make a successful invasion of Norway whenever the time seems ripe, Crown Prince Olav declared in Toronto. He and the Princess Martha inspected Norwegian airmen in training. They also visited the Norwegian camp at Interlaken. The Princess said the Muskoka country made her "homesick for Norway."

TORPEDO CLAIMS TANKER

Flares of the U.S. bomber command had this view of the Norwegian tanker, S.S. Varanger, sinking off Atlantic City, N.J. The crew of 42 was saved.

ESCAPE OF GERMAN WARSHIPS FROM BREST CONSTITUTES A THREAT TO ALLIED SEA POWER

Outlines New Duties

Churchill Gives Idea Of Work Lord Beaverbrook Will Do

London.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's newly-appointed minister of production, will represent Britain in various pooling arrangements with the United States in a capacity corresponding to that of Donald M. Nelson, head of America's war production board.

All labor questions, Mr. Churchill added, will be settled between the minister of labor, Ernest Bevin, and the new minister of production, Lord Beaverbrook.

Of Lord Beaverbrook's selection for the production portfolio, it was explained entry of United States into the war with its consequent far-reaching measures for pooling of resources had necessitated a change in the British setup and that the Canadian-born publisher not only has close contact with American production chiefs but also "the confidence and good will" of President Roosevelt.

Fast Work

Canadian Factory Produces Gun Barrels In Less Time

Toronto.—Bernard Schonegevel, a South African and leader of Gen. Jan Smuts' party in the provincial house, said in an address that one Canadian factory has produced a gun barrel in one-third the production time required for the same barrel in Britain.

Turning to manpower, he told the Kiwanis club luncheon that South Africa had a higher percentage of Europeans on active service than any other British dominion.

"Seven and one-half per cent of our white population is on active service, all on a voluntary basis," he added.

Fewer Immigrants

Largest Number Entering Last Year Were From United States

Ottawa.—Immigrants entering Canada in 1941 numbered 9,329 and more than half of them came from the United States, an immigration branch statement showed. Not since 1890, when 6,274 arrived, has the total been so small. The 1941 total was down almost 2,000 from 1940 when 11,324 entered the Dominion.

Interchange Forbidden

Ottawa.—Under gasoline rationing which starts in Canada next April 1, a motorist may obtain a gasoline license and ration coupon book for each vehicle registered in his name but "no interchange of gasoline from one vehicle to another will be permitted," the munitions and supply department said.

London.—Escape from Brest of a trio of fast and powerful German warcraft under the noses of the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force and the very muzzles of British shore batteries is a stunning new blow to anti-Axis war leaders.

It changes vital war factors in both oceans. It represents, aside from any other construction placed upon it, closely integrated German-Japanese strategy.

With such big and dangerous vessels as the light battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen loose in the Atlantic, that ocean becomes again the greatest danger zone for Britain, Russia and the United States. Those sea routes must be kept open if the Axis war design is to be frustrated.

And to the extent that the daring German sea success forces increased Anglo-American naval concentrations in the Atlantic at the expense of the Pacific defenses it will certainly help Japan enlarge her victories. It could seal the fate of the Netherlands Indies next in line for Japanese assault.

London commentators make no bones about the seriousness for the Allied cause of the failure to destroy those German warcraft. Hitler gambled mightily—and unquestionably won—in ordering the bold dash through Dover Strait. The skill and daring with which that coup was executed merit command admiration; yet it speaks also of desperation. What the purpose was is not yet fully revealed, but the risk was so great, the chance of success so small, that some critical aspect of Nazi or Axis strategy must be involved.

The stark fact that confronts London and Washington is that Hitler at this moment may have the most powerful surface fleet now in the Atlantic.

What Anglo-American naval strength in the Atlantic is has not been disclosed. Most of it certainly is widely dispersed on convoy and patrol duty. The British Mediterranean fleet and the United States Pacific fleet both have their hands full. Both may have been lately reinforced from the Atlantic coast by forces of high importance and must be rapidly growing upwards," he said. "Canada has all the facilities for creating output and certainly Canadian output will grow."

The minister said the Allies have not only pooled "all weapons produced in the United States and Britain as well as other Allied countries, but also have set up boards to dispose of these weapons."

Lord Beaverbrook said large quantities of machine tools had been sent to Russia and Australia and added: "Now the minister of production must look to the position here where the machine tool industry can be developed."

He said there is a shortage of new weapons, "but if we had no obligations to foreign countries, if we could keep ourselves all we produce, there would be no shortage of war weapons."

Lord Beaverbrook pointed out that in addition to arms exports from Britain to the fighting forces "large numbers of tanks were sent direct to the Middle East from the United States, and we have sent away our Canadian tanks, too. They have never come to this country."

ALLIES POOLING PRODUCTION OF ALL THEIR WAR WEAPONS FOR THE COMMON CAUSE

London. Production Minister Lord Beaverbrook told the house of lords that the Washington combined war materials board plans to produce 400,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually of which Britain expects to get 50,000 tons.

British war factories "in the space of six or seven months," have doubled the output of finished materials, Lord Beaverbrook said.

Last week's tank production, after Sir Andrew Duncan became the new minister of supply, was the largest since the beginning of the war, he told the house.

Promises of material aid to Russia, he declared, were fulfilled up to Jan. 31, "with the exception of one tank." British tanks played "a very big part in the defence of Moscow," Lord Beaverbrook said, adding "but we must send Russia very shortly immensely increased shipments of tanks and aircraft."

Lord Beaverbrook said it was his job to persuade producers in Canada, the United States and all other Allied countries "to bring forward their program consistently with the Allied needs in the battle line all over the world."

The principal production that will have to be dealt with is not from the factories of Britain, he said. His main function would be "to tap

NOTES AND COMMENTS

All Out For Victory

The fighting men want to know that Canada is behind them. Words of praise are mere empty platitudes unless accompanied by appreciative action in buying Victory Bonds. Older men who are beyond active military age have a part to play. Everyone not in uniform has a part in this war. Salesmen are out to sell bonds for Victory, as volunteers. Do not labor under the impression they are doing it for gain. They are doing it as a very important phase of the war effort—to raise more money to finance Canada's war costs. The man who says he cannot afford to buy a bond must either be a slacker or unemployed, or has already pledged his earnings to the limit. Of the latter, no criticism can be offered. Remember that soldiers of Canada, of Australia, of India and New Zealand, of South Africa, have been fighting a losing battle in Hong Kong and Singapore and the entire Malayan peninsula. Thousands have been killed or wounded. Other thousands are prisoners of war, and we know not what their privations and sufferings may be. Surely the part we are asked to play in the security of our Dominion is pitifully small—to buy Victory Bonds. Can any red-blooded man say he cannot afford it? No sacrifice is entailed in putting aside sufficient each week to pay for a bond, for where there's a will there's a way—always!

Britain Is Critical

The unpleasant truth is admitted—the war has entered a critical stage for Britain and the United States. Japan's entry has proved more disastrous to the Allied Nations than ever anticipated, and it will take a long time to make good the losses suffered by the Japanese blitzkrieg, which so far has surpassed that of Germany in the rapid conquest of the Philippines, the Malayan peninsula and territory of the Netherlands Indies. Britain had a stupendous task. Keeping Germany at bay to prevent invasion of Britain was a herculean task, and keeping the life lines open on the ocean taxed naval strength to the limit. Thousands of miles from supply bases Hong Kong and Singapore were practically cut off as soon as Japan declared war. Considering the magnitude of Britain's commitments, and the long years of preparation and scheming by Japan, it is no wonder that those strongholds have fallen. Brave men defended them to the last, against fearful odds. No men could have done better. Underestimating the strength of our enemies has been our weakness, for which we now have to pay the price. Instead of leveling criticism at Churchill, who for years was a voice crying in the wilderness of appeasement and vacillations among political factions, the Empire should be thankful that he has the power to keep it united in purpose. If there is dead-wood in his cabinet, it should be removed. The reputation of men in high positions or commanders of navies and armies often in times of war hang on a pin point; if things go well they are heroes; if reverses are suffered, they are liable to be scapegoats. The criticism which is now prevalent should make everyone realize just how serious this war is and the menace that hangs over all of us. It should be a spur for still greater effort, for less frills and more work to ensure ultimate victory.

How Would It Work?

A speaker on the war recently stated that if the fighting was restricted to men over fifty years of age, there wouldn't be any wars. Of course, this is another case of that little word "if." All admit the folly of wars, as two men will, after a stand-up and knock-em-down battle, usually shake hands and be friends. But the fighting spirit inherent in human nature cannot be eradicated. If it were, wouldn't the race become a bunch of "sissies?" There is a Scriptural injunction that if your enemy should smite you on the cheek, turn the other cheek also, that he may smite that too. You are supposed to forgive him and let him go on slapping others. That's why Hitler made such a conquest in Europe. Too many cheeks were slapped without fighting back.

Chamberlain came back from Munich with the slogan "Peace in Our Time," yet see what happened. He was deceived, as were many others, and Europe was engulfed in war. Men over fifty are not able to fight as are younger men, at least not in standing up to the physical requirements of modern war. But lots of the men of today over fifty did their fighting twenty-five, thirty or more years ago, and their sons carry on in the same old way.

And of turning the other cheek, one is reminded of a husky parson who tried to live up to the teachings of the great Master. He suffered one cheek to be slapped, then turned the other cheek also, and after that pitched into and gave his opponent a damned good thrashing.

Benefits of Advertising

The most widely-known business concerns are those which consistently advertise at all times. Not only does it maintain or increase volume but it is a continual messenger of goodwill which keeps the advertiser in the public mind. It applies to small towns as well as large cities, where advertisers of well-known concerns of many years' experience know that it pays good dividends. Repetition impresses itself consciously or unconsciously in the public mind. Think of the most widely-known brand of automobiles, corn flakes, chewing gum, soap or cigarettes, and immediately will come to your mind those whose advertising is constantly before your eyes in magazines, newspapers and billboards. As valuable to business as a well-kept store front or place of business, it serves as a constant invitation to the people of any locality to do business with you. Advertising is an investment which brings good returns, for it will increase volume and thereby reduce fixed overhead costs in proportion to the increased volume of business it brings. This is not just advertising talk, but is based on actual experience of firms whose advertising appropriations run into thousands of dollars annually.

ENORMOUS LIQUOR REVENUE

Premier Aberhart said this week that he has received a request from Ottawa officials for certain information regarding the liquor trade, which has been referred to the provincial officials concerned. An outside report said the Dominion was communicating with all provincial governments respecting restriction of sales of alcoholic beverages during the war. Dominion revenues from such sales amounted to $48,000,000 last year. The various provinces are reported to obtain about $40,000,000 in the aggregate. The Dominion controls manufacture. Provinces control sales. Temperance workers charge the trade causes "economic waste"; others claim restriction will increase lawlessness.

Insure your way of life. Buy Victory Bonds.

Miners Tounce Calgary in First Round Play-Offs

Win 7-1 and 4-2 In Week-End Games; Play Winner Blairmore-Medicine Hat In Second Round.

Calgary Red Wings, playing the Miners in the first round of the intermediate play-offs, were no match for the locals at the weekend and were shunted to the sidelines by scores of 7-1 on Saturday evening and 4-2 on Sunday afternoon.

Few spectators were present Saturday evening to see the locals win as they pleased. They took a 3-0 lead in the first period, 6-0 in the second and made it 7-0 in the third with fifty seconds remaining when Calgary scored.

In Sunday's game a good crowd was on hand and witnessed a closer contested game. Miners again dominated by taking a 2-0 lead in the first period, led 2-1 at the end of the second and skated off with a 4-2 win at the end of the final frame.

Miners now play the winners of the Blairmore-Medicine Hat series which opened on Wednesday and finishes on Saturday night, total goals to count.

Lineups
Calgary: McTigue, Ramsay, Taives; Spielman, Duft, Leinweber; Kromm, Bender, Kohn.
Coleman: Sluggs; Murdoch, Kwasnie; Field, Andrews, Fleming; Joyce, Mozell, Moore, Root, J. Troitz, W. Troitz.

Lions And Elks to Tangle at Arena on Sunday Evening

Elks Too Smart Since Their Attack on Blairmore So Lions Out to Take the Wind Out of Their Sails.

Coleman Elks are getting altogether too cheery around town these days since their successful hockey attack on the Blairmore Elks two weeks ago. In fact it got to the point where some are even bursting the buttons on their vests.

Noticing this with a great deal of concern were a number of the Lions club members. They got into a huddle and came forth with the brilliant idea of handling Elks a smashing defeat on the ice next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. This would serve a twofold purpose as it would take the Elks down a peg or two to know that a better hockey team existed in town and the ice would serve to cool the cocky ones off while a blistering pace was being maintained by the doughty Lions.

Here are the line-ups: Elks, "Brimsek" Smith; Pelcuk and Ferby; Razzell Dazzell Smith, G. Jenkins and Gate; The Kraut line of Jenkins, Atkinson and Spievak.

Lions have Doc Claxton in goal, Richards and Murdoch on defence, Spillers, Pattinson and Resac on one line and Van Maaron, Dickieson and Geurard on the other. Doc Rose, Collier and a number of others will help in the pinches. 50% of the proceeds will be given to the Air Cadets and 50% to the arena management. Don't fail to attend this game.

How Important Are Drives For Salvage?

Householders Could Save Canada an Estimated $12 Millions a Year, According to Officials of This Patriotic Enterprise.

(The Financial Post)

How big a factor in Canada's war effort is salvage? Nobody knows exactly.

How big a factor SHOULD it be, in a real "all-out" war effort? Here is one answer.

If every household in Canada saved, per month:

Bones	8 lbs.
Magazines	10 lbs.
Other waste paper	10 lbs.
Aluminum	1 lb.
Other metals	10 lbs.
Rags	6 lbs.
Fats	5 lbs.

then donated them to local salvage organizations, war charities would benefit to the extent of $1 million per month. Perhaps even more important than this, many crucial shortages would be substantially eased.

ALBERTA SUGAR BEET PRODUCTION

Southern Alberta sugar beet processing plants at Raymond and Picher Butte will complete operations this month, having been running since September 29. The production of sugar from the 1941 beet crop will total approximately 90 million pounds. The 1941 beet production was lower than the 330,281 tons harvested in 1940, but the sugar content of the 1941 beets averaged above 18 per cent compared to slightly more than 16 per cent for the 1940 beets. Thus the output of sugar for the two years was about the same.

The acreage under sugar beets in the Lethbridge district was approximately 24,000 in 1941. It is probable that there will be an increase next year of around 4,000 acres. The federal government wants more homegrown sugar.

There are five sugar beet processing plants in Canada. Besides the two in Alberta there is one in Manitoba and two in Ontario. A sixth plant is being built in Quebec.

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

The department of education is studying means to overcome current and future shortages of teachers, it was reported this week. Since last fall groups of normal students are being sent out to work one-third terms and so keep teacherless schools operating. The question of reducing normal fees from $100 to $25 is also under consideration.

Internment of "Other Than Enemy Aliens" Explained

Only on the unanimous report of a committee of three high officials from the Department of Labor, External Affairs and Immigration, are persons other than enemy aliens interned in Canada, Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent told a press conference in his office Friday.

Evidence is presented to this committee in which neither the Department of Justice nor the Mounted Police are represented.

Other steps taken before any Canadian is sent to an internment camp mentioned by Mr. St. Laurent were:

1. The accused is lodged in the local jail and notified of the reasons why he is detained.
2. Opportunity is given of seeing his family and his lawyer. The lawyer is given a copy of the reasons for detention.
3. He is not moved to the internment camp until his case has been heard by an advisory committee of three men headed by a judge and a decision rendered.

Making his first comment on internment operations since he became Minister of Justice, Mr. St. Laurent stresses that the regulations were designed for the sole purpose of protecting the state. Internment was not a punishment for past offences; it was purely a precautionary measure.

To date, Mr. St. Laurent revealed, 1,556 persons, including enemy aliens, have been interned in Canada. Of these 495 have been released. Canadians interned totaled 1,114 of whom 106 were Communists and the rest Nazis and Fascists.

Even since the entry of Russia into the war, Canadian Communists have been active in attempts to sow dissension in the armed forces, the Minister said. He quoted from a pamphlet widely distributed among soldiers calling for fighting men to protest against existing conditions and ending as follows:

"We must expose all mismanagement and incapableness of the higher officers and all Fascist officers and careerists must be thrown out."

To a direct question Mr. St. Laurent said releases had been refused in 19 cases in which release had been recommended by a Judicial Committee. In Great Britain Mr. St. Laurent stated—release of 132 cases had been refused in a similar way for similar reasons that governed the 19 cases in Canada.

Explaining the holding of the 19 men, Mr. St. Laurent said that important evidence of a strictly confidential nature received from the Secret Service or other countries could not in every instance be revealed to the Advisory Committee. In particular cases this evidence had resulted in the minister rejecting recommendations for release. However, several of the 19 cases referred to after further investigation was released.

Not a man has been interned in Canada because he was a labor leader or associated with a particular trade union, the minister told questioners. Internment in every case had resulted from subversive activities.

Asked about internments of individuals acquitted in the court, Mr. St. Laurent stated that only one individual was interned after being acquitted. Five others, however, were detained after their convictions had been either quashed or they had been released from prison on habeas corpus on technicalities.

WILL CONCLUDE MINE ENQUIRY

Final hearings in the Nordegg mine disaster enquiry conducted by Mr. Justice Erving will be heard in Edmonton it was announced this week. Counsel will complete their cases with oral arguments. ### British Fleet Air Arm Active in Mediterranean

This photograph, recently taken aboard the British aircraft carrier H.M.S. "Ark Royal", shows a torpedo being loaded on to a "Swordfish" torpedo bomber aircraft just before it took off, on a search for the Italian fleet. It was fighter aircraft from the Ark Royal escorting an important convoy through the Mediterranean, which successfully attacked and helped to shoot down fourteen Italian torpedo aircraft; then attempted to interfere with the passage of the British merchant ships. Later, the Ark Royal sent out a torpedo striking force to search for and attack the Italian Fleet which had been reported nearby. Although the British aircraft searched for two hours they could not locate the Italian Fleet which had turned and run for home. (The "Ark Royal" was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean by an Italian submarine.)

Synthetic Rubber

Think Substitutes Will Prove Better Than Natural Rubber

Prof. G. L. Clark, noted University of Illinois chemist, whose research efforts contributed to commercial development of synthetic rubber, predicts that substitutes in America soon will be better than natural rubber.

Starting his research in 1925, Clark set up a laboratory to X-ray rubber and study the molecules of which it is composed. He found that when rubber is stretched, some of long, twisted molecules line up into crystals, and that this partial crystallization, which ends when the stretch is released, is a property that every substitute or synthetic rubber must have.

He also found that the manner in which ordinary rubber stretches is different from that in which it returns to its previous shape. Plotting the elongation against the extent of crystallization, he showed the stretching process as a smooth up-swinging curve, while the "unstretching" curve has a series of bumps like a rocky hillside.

In 1935 he learned that a molecule of rubber weighs 500,000 times as much as a molecule of hydrogen, although all previous estimates placed the weight at only 68,000 times. No molecules this large had ever been made by chemists. After his finding they set out to make molecules of molecular weight up to 500,000, and when this was done, useful synthetic rubber became feasible.

Awarded British Empire Medal

Steward On German Captured Tanker Aids British Patrol In Rescue

Thomas Huggert, a steward aboard the German-captured 8,040-ton tanker, San Casimiro, was awarded the British Empire medal for his feat a year ago in surreptitiously painting a three-foot-high "SOS" deck sign which enabled British patrols to recapture the ship.

The San Casimiro was taken by the German battleship Gneisenau last March in the western Atlantic when a prize crew under Lieut. Otto Grenz was put aboard her.

"You'll never get through our patrols," British seamen told the lieutenant who stowed them below deck.

As the tanker neared England en route to a German-held port, a plane from the aircraft carrier Ark Royal flew over.

Mixing a paste of flour and water, Huggert evaded the prize crewmen, found a bit of uninhabited deck, and painted his big sign.

When the Nazi commander, Lieut. Grenz, discovered it, he told Huggert: "My compliments. A nice job. Now scrub it off."

But a British plane had spotted the sign, and in a short time the battle cruiser Renown appeared on the horizon and recaptured the ship despite Nazi attempts to scuttle her.

Interested In Geography

War Has Proved A Great Stimulant To Students

War is a definite boom to the science of geography, according to Dr. Raymond E. Murphy, of the Pennsylvania State College.

"War pumps fresh blood into the study of geography, which is allowed to stagnate in times of peace," says Dr. Murphy. "Whether we like it or not, we are concerned in the affairs of the entire world. Our entrance into the war should rekindle a wave of interest in geography throughout the country."

The study of geography boomed during World War I, but was allowed to stagnate in the years that followed, Dr. Murphy said. This lethargic attitude was reflected in a lack of interest in the subject among students, he added.

Exported From Orient

Western World Depends On Tropical Regions For Its Spices

Spices are grown chiefly in the tropical regions of the Orient, the main countries of production being the Netherlands East Indies, India, China, Japan, the Malay Peninsula, and certain islands off the coast of Africa, notably Madagascar, Pemba, and Zanzibar.

It is in the large group islands that we know as the Netherlands East Indies that we find the Molucca Islands that are often referred to as the Spice Islands. The waterways of India are thick with pepper-laden patimars, native boats that look like a cross between a canoe and a cradle. Lumbering ox-carts, lazy mules, amble along the roads leading from inland plantations to seaport warehouses. Perilously fragile-looking palms, manned by turbaned natives, ply between the islands of the East and carry the fragrant bales of cinnamon and cloves to the chief harbor of export.

According to Herodotus, the biggest army of ancient times was that of the Persian conqueror, Xerxes, in the fifth century, B.C., who had 2,600,000 fighters.

JESUS APPOINTS AND TEACHES THE TWELVE

Golden text: Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. Matthew 5:16.

Lesson: Mark 3:13-19; Matthew 5:7; Luke 6:12-49.

Devotional reading: II Timothy 1:3-14.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Appoints The Twelve, Luke 6:12-16. It was in "these days" that Luke records in this sixth chapter occurred; he is not making any effort here to be definite as to time. In these days Jesus went into the mountains to pray and continued there all night in prayer. Luke refers to six prayers of Jesus which the other Evangelists omit: the prayer at his baptism, after curing the leper, before calling the disciples, at the transfiguration, on the cross for his murderers and when dying. Jesus was a Man of prayer.

In the morning he chose from among all his followers a little group of twelve disciples. These he named apostles, messengers. "The number twelve is significant and symbolical, a clear allusion to the tribes of a new Israel. And by that choice of twelve Jesus did two things: (1) he made a tremendous claim for himself. Even now we know at this moment what the choice of the twelve implied. It implied that Jesus was the promised and long-expected Messiah. It meant that he was the fulfillment of ancient prophecy. And (2) it provided the apostles themselves with a constant stimulus to devotion and support of faith. It carried their minds back to the promises" (J. D. Jones).

They were ordinary men, these twelve, men from the ordinary ranks of a clear allusion to the tribes of a new Israel. One was a tax-collector. Dr. F. B. Meyer divides them into three groups. In the first are men of action and leadership: Peter, John, James and Andrew. In the second are the men who reasoned, questioned and doubted—perhaps they might be called the contemplative group: Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew and Thomas. In the third are the men of practical and political tendencies: Simon, Judas and Judas. The first disciples were called by Jesus soon after his baptism and temptation. Recall our lesson for February 15. Jesus called them to follow him. He chose them for the privileges and responsibilities of constant, intimate companionship. Thereafter much of his time was spent in teaching them and preparing them to take up his work.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

EPIDEMICS AVOIDED IN BRITAIN

Sir Wilson Jameson, Chief Medical Officer of the British Ministry of Health, in his report on British Health Services in Wartime in Bulletin from Britain, received by the Health League of Canada, explains that epidemics have been avoided in England during the war years.

"We very naturally dreaded the appearance of serious epidemic disease in the unusual conditions in which people were living," Sir Wilson writes, "and in order to assist early diagnosis we established a system, under the management of the Medical Research Council, of more than thirty emergency public health laboratories covering the whole country." Some of these as Sir Wilson explains were new creations; others, which had been in existence for years, were brought into the scheme. "As a result every Medical Officer of Health has now a first-class laboratory within a maximum radius of 30 miles," Sir Wilson states. "Not only does the laboratory do all the bench work needed but the staff go out and help with the field work."

Sir Wilson Jameson admits that one of the fears of the Ministry of Health was that, with the inevitable damage to water mains and sewers by bombing attacks, there would be a great increase in the incidence of typhoid fever. Happily that fear has never been realized. Sir Wilson explains that the disinfection of mains under repairs, by means of chlorine, has proved an excellent safeguard and neither in London nor elsewhere has there been any outbreak of typhoid fever due to damage to mains and sewers as a result of air raids. On the other hand, he admits that there have been a number of epidemics of paratyphoid fever traceable in a majority of instances to infection associated with premises where bread and various kinds of pastries are made.

The increased production of soybeans in Canada is due mainly to the realization by stockmen that soybean protein can be used satisfactorily to balance the coarse grains—oats, barley, corn, which constitute the bases of rations used for growing and fattening live stock and for the production of eggs and milk.

ANNE TEDLOCK BROOKS

What Has Gone Before: Knox Randolph and his daughter invite Major Towne and Christopher Sande to the old plantation home for lunch. They are to discuss the finding of the papers that make Tamar half owner of the place, and the idea of a new contract that will give the Randolphs a more equal share of whatever gold is taken from the mine. It is here that Tamar's suspicions are aroused by Towne's actions. Later they start for Dick Sheridan's office to draw up a new contract and Tamar, seeing Ranny, tell him the news also.

CHAPTER IX.

"I know something that you should have learned before your father agreed to lease the land. I found it out purely accidentally, too." Ransome Todd leaned toward Tamar, who had settled back again in the chair across from his desk.

Ransome picked up a pencil and traced figures on his blue blotter. Tamar, watching them, saw they consisted of circles and triangles decorated with dots and dashes. "Heavens! Stop it, Ranny! You're ruining your blotter."

He grinned and started to erase them but gave it up as a bad job. "You know the Feltten family, Tamar, who live on a branch of the Chesta-tee."

"Why, yes, of course, I saw them this morning." She remembered the dirty children, the barking of the dogs and the scratching, dusty chickens around the shack. A fleeting picture of Madcap's bolting with her and of Christopher Sande's hard arms catching her up also came to her.

"Phew! Petten came in yesterday afternoon just before the bank closed, on a little business. He was sent in to get a new note and when asked about the possibilities of paying it in two months he said they were excellent. The ground's pizen with gold, Mr. Todd. The Cricket Hill's worth a fortune. I saw some men working around there last February."

Last February?" Tamar exclaimed. "Why, how could that be?"

"That could be easily done and no one would suspect a thing. I honestly believe that the Major knew all about the chances for his strike before he ever took an option on the mine. I think that he had enough sample ore taken out of there in February to test."

Tamar sprang to her feet. "Is there any way we could ever prove it?"

Ransome stood over his desk. "I don't know what to say. The thing to do now is for you to make any demands you see fit in the amount of your percentage of the product. It may be best right now for you not to reveal your suspicions."

Tamar's face was pale. "I don't like to think about dealing with a man like that though. If he is that dishonest he may be dishonest in other ways, too."

"That's why you should write your own terms into that contract. My advice is to go ahead now and take what you can get."

Tamar turned at the door and held out her hand. "I want you to know, Ranny, that I think you've been grand over all of this and that I do appreciate it."

She was gone then, and Ransome saw her run up the stairs through the glass door of the lobby.

When she reached the law office of Sheridan & Sheridan, Christopher Sande had thoughtfully disappeared, and only the Major, her father and Dick Sheridan were there.

The men cautiously rose and she motioned them back to their seats.

"Thanks, Dick," she said sitting down to his desk.

She was always to remember the hour that followed. Her father looked at her questioning when she raised the amount that he asked for, by 15 per cent. more. She looked at him levelly and in her clear eyes perhaps he saw that she had reasons. The Major set his lips and his jaw and settled back in his chair. Dick Sheridan had already procured a duplicate of the document that Tamar had found in the old trunk this morning.

In the end Tamar had her way about the terms of the contract. If it had been necessary to hint to the Major that she knew about the workmen seen about the mine in February, she would have mentioned it, but something warned her to be glad that she did not have to tell of it. If her father had known he probably would not have had any dealings with the Major.

The Major was silent as they went back down the stairs and into the mid-afternoon sun. The engineer joined them and they went back to Shadwell. Tamar and her father watched the long black car glide back down the drive, as they stood together on the verandah.

As it turned the curve in the road, he turned to her with a question in his eyes that were so nearly the color of hers.

"Don't ask me why, Dad. I just think it was the right thing to do. I have a feeling the Major isn't as honest as he tries to pretend. It must be Grandfather's blood showing up in me. As Phoebe says: I got my dander up!"

"You've got a good business head, Tamar," he said stooping to kiss her cheek. "Let's go tell Mother about our afternoon."

It surprised Tamar to see how much work had been done at the mine the next time she visited it. This time she did not take Madcap, but drove her own coupe that her father had given her for a birthday present the week before.

The air to-day was cool and she had put on a soft blue sweater, and navy slacks. She took off her sun glasses and slipped them into their case. She stepped up on a rock and stood watching the men at work. Her bare hair caught and held the sun and it flashed blue-black against the turn of her head.

Christopher Sande, emerging from the darkness of the tunnel into the Cricket Hill, stopped in surprise as he saw the slender girl poised on the big rock.

"Hello!" she called gaily. "You have company."

He crossed the path over to meet

her. "Don't you know that you really shouldn't come here by yourself?" he asked gravely, taking her hand.

Tamar smiled. "Oh, I'm not afraid of coming out here in broad daylight. Heavens! I've roamed the hills of Shadwell on Madcap since I was first able to sit in a saddle."

"I know," he agreed. "But it was different then. Don't get the mistaken idea that coming to the Cricket Hill now is just like the good old days. You're far too pretty to trust out on these lonely roads. Why," he grinned engagingly, "even I have a very good notion to spirit you away."

"Do!" she dared him, her blue eyes laughing into his dark ones.

He glanced quickly at his wrist-watch. "I wish I could. But I have to report to the Major at the Kandy Kitchen at lunch."

"I wish it wouldn't seem too forward of me to suggest my taking you there," she said.

"Not at all," he bantered. "I'm used to being pursued by beautiful young ladies with blue eyes and," he said, studying her hair, "the most ravishing curls. It's dangerous to evade them—the girls I mean!"

"Egotist! Get in," she started to turn her coupe. "We've wasted a minute!" She stepped on the starter and they rolled into the wagon tracks leading back into the road. "I'll bet that you were the dashing hero back in Boston."

"That must be lots of fun. I think I'd like that. We ride and dance and swim here for amusement." With a sweeping of her hand she brushed the curls from her eyes. In her well fitting slacks suit, he could see that she had the grace of one who excelled in swimming, dancing and riding.

Cricket Hill in plenty of time to start work."

"Oh, we can make some arrangements about that. She wished for Tahlahneka II. back again so that Christopher Sande could gallop over the dewy meadow with her, in the early sunrise that Shadwell knew. Perhaps she could borrow him from present owner, Ransome.

An odd feeling possessed her. Wasn't it just a bit unfair to borrow the loan from Ransome to lend to Christopher?

She was still toying with the idea, and wondering how it happened to strike her, when she drove up in front of the Kandy Kitchen.

The Major's car was standing outside and Sande remarked: "I hope I'm on time. Won't you come in and have lunch with me?"

He stood with one brown leather boot up on the running board, his soft felt hat, in his hand.

Tamar's heart turned over. Her hands gripped the steering wheel to keep from trembling. "Thank you, no. I'll shop a bit and pick you up to take you back in an hour."

"I'll be ready," he said.

She drove slowly down the street that was empty save for the loiterers on the corners and the conversationists on the park benches skirting the courthouses. Tahlahneka was at lunch. Several of the business men patronized the Kandy Kitchen counter for their meals, as it boasted one of the finest roasts in town.

She felt her hands still trembling. Christopher Sande. His name had a lovely sound. His face rose before her, strong featured, dark eyes that had dreams in their depths, straight, jutting brows. Like something struggling for attention, came another face before her, blonde hair softly waving back from a wide high forehead, dark eyes that had more than dreams within them.

Why should Ransome's face assert itself across her vision, when she wanted to think only of Christopher?

Suddenly she gasped. When she sprang for the white light, some one slowed on the running board. It was Ransome. He smiled, which helped take the sting out of his bantering. "In the taxi business?"

From War To War

Horses Which Were Almost Eliminated Are Now Coming Back

Horses are coming back. That's the news from the farm front. With gasoline and rubber and steel on the restricted list owing to their need for fighting the war, old Dobbin promises to come back into his own. Horsepower on the farm is likely to mean just that, and in increasing measure as the war goes on.

It was, strange as it may seem, during the last war that farm mechanization got its first big boost in Western Canada. In those days war equipment was much less complicated than now, and mechanization did not require so much steel gasoline and the like.

During the war, too, wages of farm labor jumped to six and eight dollars a day, and with farmers being called upon to the limit of their capacity there was a demand for machines that would do a big job faster than horses could do it. Thousands of the early gasoline tractors were sold in South Alberta in 1916, 1917 and 1918, and that was the beginning of Dobbin's near-exit. Lethbridge Herald.

Canadian Hog Production

Prairie Provinces Have Been Increasing Their Output

An upsurge in western Canadian hog production has brought new encouragement in the campaign to provide the United Kingdom with a record-breaking 600,000,000 pounds of bacon under an existing contract, agriculture department officials said.

The most spectacular production gain of the year has been reported on the prairies. Saskatchewan's hog carcass gradings for January totaled 70,286 compared with 48,294 in the same period last year.

While western provinces have increased their output, Quebec and Ontario deliveries have lagged thus far in 1942.

"While the percentage of increase in production is not in proportion to the increase in contract requirements, the picture is more encouraging in the last few weeks," an agriculture department official said.

Public co-operation in keeping down bacon consumption and further production gains still will be necessary to complete the contract.

Factories In Miniature

Any Housewife Would Enjoy Kitchens For British War Workers

Housewives anywhere may envy the great kitchens which are now part of Britain's war factories, serving substantial meals at 35 cents, and washing up in one hour 12,000 plates, cups, saucers, knives, forks and spoons without a single dishcloth.

Here is one of their meals: Scotch broth, roast lamb, mint sauce and two vegetables, apple tart, roll and butter, coffee.

The new kitchens which prepare these meals are themselves factories in miniature, with ovens as high as five feet. Into one machine goes the potatoes which are peeled at a speed of 56 lbs. a minute; another machine mashes the potatoes; a third rolls out the pastry for the apple tart.

When they are all cooked, the dinners go into a vast hot cabinet, 180 at a time; and 7,000 workers sit down to this good hot meal little more than ten minutes after they have knocked off work.

Anything left over is tipped into a bin and a warm spray is played upon each side of a line of empty belt. The plates are then dowsed with cold water, a hot spray is turned on them and they dry at once as they meet the cold air.

And not a dishcloth is used in the washing up of this dinner for a family of 7,000 workers for the war.

Even Silly Ones Are Revealing

An idiotic dream! It seems that in his kitchen, frying bacon and eggs, was a man from the office whom he disliked. Though he protested his visitor just laughed confidently and presented the platter to the dreamer's work who said, "Bacon is sweet and so are you."

It sounds silly enough, but any psychologist will tell you that your silliest dream may contain the clue to inner conflicts, conflicts you may not realize.

Perhaps you, like this man, suffer from a fear of competition. In his dream, his subconscious wove a revealing drama based on the common phrase, "Bring home the bacon." He feared other men were better able than he to hold his wife's affection and to provide for her.

Your subconscious may also use common objects or images as symbols of your secret emotions. A dream of a screen hints you're making excuses for yourself; a dark place symbolizes marriage. Or do you dream of prison, snakes, music, a burning house?

Our 32-page booklet scientifically explains many common dreams and dream symbols, helps you understand their relation to your problems. Discusses sex dreams, dreams that come true.
